AGGRESSIVE SEATTLE DRUG MANUFACTURING DEFENSE LAWYERS

Oftentimes, the evidence collected by law enforcement during a search or seizure is the most significant evidence the prosecution has in drug manufacturing cases. The amount and weight of any roots, seeds, capsules or chemicals used to manufacture illegal controlled substances could be used by prosecutors to establish the basis for serious drug charges. As the defendant, you may feel hopeless about the evidence against you, but the good news is there are ways of discounting incriminating evidence.

A Seattle criminal defense attorney at our firm can apply top-notch defense tactics to attack the evidence that was collected by questioning investigators and prosecutor's methods of obtaining evidence. If illegal search or seizure took place, or if your constitutional rights were violated by them when collecting the evidence, the evidence will have to be thrown out, weakening the prosecution's case against you.
